

HOW TO MEASURE YOUR HEAD

The best tool for measuring your head is a flexible measuring tape. This type of measuring tape is usually made of soft vinyl and will not stretch. If you don't have access to a flexible measuring tape, you can use a piece of string or ribbon. Just make sure whatever you use doesn't stretch, or you may not get an accurate measurement. You might want to record your measurements on the handy sketch provided below.

Measurement 1 Circumference

Start by wrapping the tape or string around the circumference of your head at the same location you would normally wear a winter hat — usually just above the eyebrows. Hold the leading edge of the tape against your forehead with one hand. Use your other hand to bring the rest of the tape across the holes in your ears, around back and back to the front until it overlaps the leading edge of the tape. Pull the tape snug but not tight and, with two fingers, pinch it just beneath the overlap point. Hold it firmly so that your forefinger marks the overlap point. Remove the tape and note the length on a piece of paper.

You may want to measure two or three times to ensure you get an accurate measurement. If you're having difficulty measuring your head size by yourself, ask a family member or friend to assist you. If you're using string, the process is the same, except you will need a traditional measuring tape or ruler to measure the length of the string. Record your circumference on the next page.

Measurements 2.1 to 2.4 Depth of Hat

Locate the top of the center of your head with a finger. Using that finger, hold down the end of the measuring tape. Return to this spot for each of the following measurements. Record your measurements on the next page.

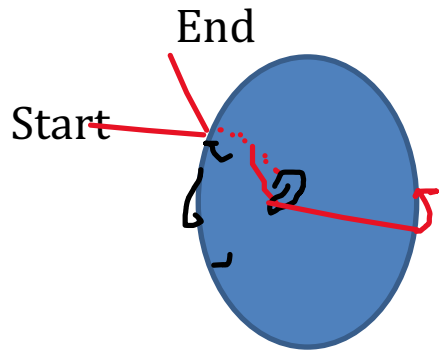

2.1 Right side - Measure from the center top to the bottom tip of your right ear lobe. Record your measurement on the next page.

2.3 Front - Measure from the center top to the top of your eyebrows. Record your measurement on the next page.

2.4 Back - Measure from the center top to the spot on your neck where you want the hat to stop. Record your measurement on the next page.
